

New York Times Best Seller And Uncle Nearest Whiskey Founder, Fawn Weaver Headlines Inclusive Capital Summit

DALLAS, TEXAS, UNITED STATES, February 15, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Impact Ventures, a 501c3 organization, investment fund, and start-up accelerator is set to convene local, regional, and national voices to discuss historically why capital has lacked inclusivity and what innovative solutions we can do about it, announced today its inaugural Inclusive Capital Summit will be May 3-5 at The Women's Building at Fair Park in Dallas, TX.

"At Impact Ventures, we believe that genius is everywhere, but access and opportunity is not. To build a truly representative and thriving business ecosystem, we must invest in the communities that have historically been underestimated," said Benjamin J. Vann, Impact Ventures founder and CEO. "The Inclusive Capital Summit will bring solution-based conversations to the forefront, equipping our community and business leaders with the knowledge, network and platform to carry their work forward, especially in the southern parts of the country."

Headlining the event is the New York Times bestselling author, investor, entrepreneur and the first Black woman to lead a major spirits brand, Fawn Weaver, whose company recently surpassed $100 million in sales. Fawn will join Impact Ventures CEO for a fireside chat where she will share her journey being the first Black woman to build a $1B+ company from the ground up, while also diligently pursuing a commitment to social impact and inclusion, and how she is using her success to create opportunities for others.

Fawn Weaver headlines Inclusive Capital Summit

"I'm grateful for Impact Ventures' mission and am excited to join the inaugural Summit," said Weaver. "Creating something from the ground up, as a woman and person of color, provides an equal amount of challenges and opportunities. Bringing together all the key players – the founders, investors and community partners – speaks to the power of community in addressing those perceived roadblocks and paving a more inclusive, opportunistic path forward."

The Inclusive Capital Summit will be a unique opportunity for attendees to explore topics like:

How do we address long-standing systemic issues like redlining, and other exclusive policies?
What role does the faith community have in economic justice?

How investors can be more intentional with capital investment by cultivating relationships with founders from underserved communities?
