During this important month, we specifically wanted to celebrate just some of those Black creators we've discovered over the past year and now love to follow every day.”

Beth Blakeley, Clickher Chief Curator

“Fashionistas are constantly searching for fresh voices and new beauty and fashion trends. Our curators regularly find those lesser-known creators who are yet to be discovered. The best part of our work is finding a diversity of voices who never miss the mark and who share our pursuit for highlighting the best beauty and fashion trends,” said Clickher Chief Curator Beth Blakely. “During this important month, we specifically wanted to celebrate just some of those Black creators we've discovered over the past year and now love to follow every day.”
