Trending Commercial Flooring Market Trend

Product innovation has emerged as a key trend gaining popularity in the commercial flooring market. Offering innovative products enables companies to remain relevant in their markets while also growing and improving over time. Major companies operating in the commercial flooring market are focused on offering innovative products to meet consumer demand. For instance, Welspun Flooring, an India-based flooring manufacturer for commercial and domestic use launched an anti-viral range of flooring solutions. This flooring comes with a special coating of silver ion and titanium oxide that inhibits the growth of the virus by 99.68%, including the COVID-19 virus. Unique features of the flooring also include anti-bacterial, anti-fungal, and anti-microbial qualities. The anti-microbial layer shields the flooring against stains and discoloration brought on by bacteria and fungi, as well as the undesirable odour in carpet tiles. With this process, the products are additionally protected from microorganisms including home dust mites, algae, and fungi. It actively suppresses the growth of microorganisms inside items.
