Hackney Publications, the Nation's Leading Publisher of Sports Law Periodicals, Publishes 24 Publications, the blog Sports Law Expert, and a Podcast

AUSTIN, TEXAS, UNITED STATES, February 21, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Hackney Publications announced today that it is launching the Sports Law Symposiums Happenings initiative (SLSH), which will serve as a clearinghouse for sports law symposiums being held throughout the United States.

SLSH will be made available for free at Hackney Publications' LinkedIn page, where followers will be notified immediately about new symposiums, as well as other items of interest from Hackney Publications.

"This is an important way for us to give back to the industry, helping higher education highlight the good work it is doing, while making the private sector aware of opportunities to learn more from leaders in the sports law community," said Holt Hackney, the founder and publisher of Hackney Publications. "This clearinghouse will provide all the details necessary for someone to register and attend the event."

The latest announcement is one of many the company has made over the last 12 months.

Among them was:

- The announcement last fall of a new podcast, which publishes twice a month. Those interested
