Taxed by Crypto Taxes?: Crypto Tax Planning 2023

When: Wed, Feb 22, 2023 , 4:00 PM Eastern Time/1:00 PM Pacific Time

Cryptocurrency may still be in its infancy, but crypto is now old enough to be getting attention from the IRS. The IRS' changes may be happening slowly, but the IRS is clearly coming for crypto—now. A new law in the U.S. is slated to go into effect in 2023 that will make tax filing for crypto investors a little easier. Meanwhile exchanges and brokerages will be required to report customer information directly to the IRS and to investors, similar to what happens with stock transactions.

Unfortunately for investors, tax planning for crypto is likely to remain complicated. Join the panel of experts to help demystify crypto tax planning and gain insights on how to tax plan for crypto in 2023.

Agenda:

- Discuss the current and future tax regulations investors to be aware of
- Explore the basics of how crypto is taxed
- Share how to minimize crypto taxes
- Cover top tips on planning to file crypto taxes in 2023

Speakers:

Ryan Firth, Founder and President, Mercer Street Company

Ryan started his career at Ernst & Young LLP and spent many years as an accounting and finance consultant, then transitioned to offering personal financial services in 2018 by founding his own registered investment advisory (RIA) firm. He is passionate about blockchain technology and cryptocurrencies, and has been following the space since 2015.

Cameron Browne, Partner, Darien Advisors

Cameron is a Partner at Darien Advisors. He is a CPA with over 12 years of experience working in public accounting, start-ups, fintech, & with small business owners & individuals at his B Corp accounting firm, Browne Tax & Advisory SPC. He's been supporting businesses & individuals since 2016 with their cryptocurrency accounting, taxes, & compliance for activities such as trading, mining/validating, DeFi, & NFT's.

Efficiency, Transparency, & Confirmability. An auditor's dream & what first attracted Cameron to the blockchain in 2015 while working in contract compliance at KPMG. Since then, that attraction has solidified into a firm belief that Web3, DeFi, & the broader cryptocurrency movement is a generational opportunity for financial inclusion, democratization, & capital for a greener, decentralized, privacy-centric, sovereign
