What are the major types of vents offered by Ventiques?

Ventiques offer various vents or floor registers to its customers through its online platform. Presenting only premium quality vents with the assurance for high functionality and proven aesthetics. The different styles and finishes presented by Ventiques are unique and enhance home décor.

Here are the three types of floor vents offered by Ventiques:

Original style vents:

The original vents are composed of high strength metal material ensuring the quality is built to last. Metal floor vents can also be used in high traffic areas as Ventique metal vents are considered to be highly durable and easy to clean.

Wood Vents:

Ventiques also offer three types of wood vents including flush mount wood vents, drop-in wood vents, and wood wall vents. All of the wood vents on the website are proudly made in the USA and sourced from local materials. Wood vents have exceptional aesthetics and look beautiful in both home and office settings. This vents seller carry a large variety of wood species to suit the specific needs. The drawback to wood vents is they are not suitable for high traffic areas as they are not designed to support much weight.

Kanyon style vents:

Similar in style to Original Ventiques the major difference is Kanyon Ventiques are adjustable in height. The Kanyon style vent frame is 1/8" thick compared to the Original style vent which has a solid 1/2" frame thickness. The Kanyon style vents include stackable "spacers" to build up the height of the vent to match the flooring level, go from 1/8" on up. Another major difference between Kanyon and Original Ventiques is the Kanyon is suitable to be installed after flooring has been installed. The Kanyon utilizes a detachable flange option so it is a great option for retrofitting. Kanyon style vents are aesthetically beautiful and available in two grille options; the Forest and the Breeze.

All the discounted offers brought by Ventiques include various products in these categories. These products are available on Ventiques.com and other retailers and distributors throughout the county. To find a nearby retailer check out the "where to buy" section on the website.

What is the right floor vent to buy?

There is no answer to this question as it totally depends on different needs related to HVAC system passage, because every home and office has unique home décor needs. So one must understand their unique home or office décor needs, only then he or she can choose the useful product.

Here are some of the tips that might be workable for the buyers:

Know the flooring and its exact match:

Before buying a vent, one must know the flooring he or she has in the home or office and accordingly the right match should be discovered. For example, tiled floors go well with metal vents while hardwood floors are probably more suitable for use with wood floor vents.

Determine the compatible style and color:

Determining the compatible style and color of a floor vent is another important thing to take into consideration before deciding. Make an exact choice on how things should look by imagining a picture into mind. Ventiques offer nine different high quality finish options one can choose while buying the product to suit the precise design needs.

Know the exact size:

Knowing the exact size of the hole for which the vent cover is needed is another crucial thing to consider. It is useful in getting the compatible metal or wood vent cover. Start by measuring the duct opening using inches and follow Ventiques' guide to ensure the correct size vent is ordered. If a person is confused about the size then taking measuring is the best thing to do to avoid further issues.

Deciding the grille patterns:

Deciding the grille options is another important design aspect to consider. People seeking for a vent with damper option then the Breeze is a great fit. Ventiques encourage to envision each of the different grille design options (Avalanche, Breeze, Forest, Tornado) in the available space before deciding what will be the compatible suit for the targeted space where vent is going to be installed.

Plan a budget:

Planning a budget is one of the important things people generally skip because they think that they may manage or this step may not carry much importance. Keeping a budget in mind makes a person more serious when making purchasing decisions. One who has not planned budget yet should consider this point and get a feature-full floor register at affordable price by utilizing the account setup section through the website.

Find the discounted offers:

Availing the discounted offers can be a relaxing thing for every customer when it comes with the value for money paid. Who doesn't love to save money? Ventiques offers discounted prices on its website for its beloved customers. As mentioned above, the customers just need to fill a simple form available on the Account Set Up Page.

Requirement of damper:

Know from the expert of the HVAC system whether there is a requirement for dampers or not. If a damper is required the Original Ventique Breeze is suggested. The Canyon style vent does not have a damper option. Dampers for wood vents can be purchased at an additional charge.

Guide of installation and cleaning:

Getting the guide of how to install and clean a wooden floor register is a factor to accumulate in the list before purchasing. Know the procedure in advance to analyse whether to buy it or not. Not having enough information may become a hurdle later. Generally, a vent is installed easily by a craftsman or a DIY expert, but getting the guide is a must even for people of the trade. It is important to understand the different options and what will exactly suit the specific ventilation requirements.

A General Query: What is the major difference between a register and floor vent?

In general, a floor register holds the power to resist air flow while a vent is used for just passing air through a small space made for the ventilation. Ventiques offer both vents that come with a damper and without. One must choose if having a damper is a requirement that must be met.

Compatible vents for traditional and modern homes:

When talking about traditional homes, wood vents look authentic as these are aesthetically traditional and the use of wood was highly preferred in the past time. In present times, the traditional and modern themes are well suited for metal or wood vents. For modern homes the use of metal Ventiques provides a sleek flush mount finish sure to enhance the look and functionality of any space.

How functional are floor registers and what are their major roles?

The answer to this question is floor registers are highly functional as they are designed to restrict air flow from passing by utilizing the damper to basically close the vent. Using a floor register with a damper can be useful when there is a need to heat or cool a portion of the space that is connected to the entire HVAC system. By closing the dampers on the floor registers in the spaces that do not need to be heated or cooled and can save money on energy bill by restricting airflow to those areas.

What is the Need for floor registers?

Flush mount wooden vents, drop in wood vents, or metal vents are an integral part of the home if the HVAC system is installed. Homes that are totally dependent on this system are generally in locations where natural ventilation cannot fit the role. Natural ventilation is always the cheaper option but almost always at the price of comfort.

Maintaining floor vents for home or office

Floor registers can make spaces more attractive but one must choose premium quality to ensure that it will not become damaged or broken. A broken or damaged register can make the home or office look untidy and dilapidated but a maintained register can make homes or offices look aesthetically beautiful. A big thing to consider when choosing the proper vent is placement of the vent. Is the duct opening where the vent will be placed in a high traffic area or will there be heavy furniture or objects? If the answer is yes then Ventiques metal vents are the solution.

Wooden registers can be broken, is it a myth or true fact?

While wood vents can break when excessive force or weight is applied they are still a great option for low traffic areas. Ventique wood vents are manufactured in the USA and made with high quality materials. Ventiques offers a wide range of species of wood that enhance the overall experience and are composed of premium materials.

Bottom Line:

Deciding the compatible vent for home décor is based on a variety of questions like which material to use Wood or metal? Is the designated area has high traffic or low traffic? Is there a need for flush mount aesthetic? Is a damper necessary? Asking these questions before making a purchase decision is key to ensuring the correct product for unique ventilation needs
