

Less than Three Weeks Until “The Current Landscape of Patient Safety” Advocacy Symposium

Registration and Exhibitor booths still available for major Pulse CPSEA event.

WANTAGH, NY, USA, February 24, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Under three weeks remain to register for Pulse Center for Patient Safety Education & Advocacy’s upcoming annual Symposium, “The Current Landscape of Patient Safety: Where We’ve Been, Where We’re Going”.

The virtual Symposium will be held March 15-16, 2023, marking national Patient Safety Awareness Week. In accordance with Pulse’s 25-year tradition of approaching the goal of safer health care from the grassroots up, it will bring together in one forum patient advocates — whether professionals or family caregivers — with influential patient safety experts and medical professionals.

We have a stellar lineup of speakers, all national leaders in their areas of expertise.”

Ilene Corina, BCPA, President, Pulse CPSEA

“We have a stellar lineup of speakers, all national leaders in their areas of expertise,” says Pulse President Ilene Corina (BCPA). “We’re looking forward to lively, even passionate discussions of key patient safety issues and methods. Uniquely, attendees and delegates will be able to meet with our speakers in small groups at the end of each day.”

Board-Certified Patient Advocates can earn up to 11 Continuing Education (CE) credits towards maintaining their qualification.

Virtual exhibitor booths are available, where exhibitors can post information and videos and gather leads.
