A video biography is a unique way to experience a loved one's life story. I'm excited to expand my services beyond Arizona to allow families to share memories for current and future generations.”

Stephen Shelley, Owner at MyBioFilms

Shelley founded MyBioFilms (formerly “SDS Films”) in Mesa, Arizona, in 2007. The company uses video production to help Baby Boomers and Gen X members in two ways. First, it preserves people's family legacies through professional interviews and outlines of their life stories. Second, MyBioFilms helps its customers feel secure knowing their loved ones will remember them after they pass away. The company does this by digitizing, restoring, updating, and archiving old photos and videos of its customers.

“A video biography is truly a unique way to experience a loved one's life story. I'm excited to expand my services beyond Arizona to allow individuals and families to share their memories for current and future generations,” said Shelley.

Stephen Shelley has worked in video production for over 15 years. During that time, he created quality biography videos for numerous residents in the Phoenix metropolitan area.

Mr. Shelley's degrees include the following:

- A Bachelor's degree in Historical Research with a minor in Small Business from Arizona State University (2011)
- A Master's degree in Business Administration from Grand Canyon University (2014)
