Trending Artificial Intelligence in Healthcare Market Trend

AI-driven surgical robots are an emerging trend in the artificial intelligence in healthcare market. Various healthcare fields have adopted robotic surgery in recent times. Robot-assisted surgeries are used to overcome limitations during minimally invasive surgical procedures and to improve surgeon capabilities during open surgeries. AI is widely applied in surgical robots and is also used with machine vision to analyse scans and detect complex cases. While performing surgeries in delicate areas of the human body, robotic surgeries are more effective than manually performed surgeries. Many technology companies are providing innovative robotic solutions to meet healthcare needs.
