

Double XXposure Media Relations Honors Black Her-Stories For Women's History Month in March

NEW YORK, NY, USA, February 28, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- During the month of March, Double XXposure Media Relations pays tribute to Black women who've made pioneering contributions to American history under the headline, Women's History Month – Honoring Black Her-Stories.

From March 1st through the 31st, African American sheroes in the areas of inventors, activists, government, sports, entertainment, business entrepreneurs, journalists and literature will be honored.

Figures to be spotlighted include Olympic gymnast Simone Biles, Grammy winner Samara Joy, legendary poet Nikki Giovanni, departed politician Barbara Jordan, activist Tarana Burke (#MeToo Movement), Grammy legend Dionne Warwick (AIDS activism) and inventor Alice H. Parker (creator of the natural gas-fueled central heating system)

Angelo Ellerbee, President/Founder of Double XXposure Media, stresses the importance of recognizing these brilliant figures as major contributors to American history. "With many corners of our country treating African American pioneers as endangered species, it's absolutely vital that these great Black women are included and reinforced within the education of history in these United States," explains Mr. Ellerbee.
