Integrating e-commerce platforms within product websites correctly is paramount to the success of an online company such as Access Control Products LLC.”

Richard Uzelac

“We have created many business-to-business e-commerce websites in the electronics and technology sector, it is one of our specialties, said Richard Uzelac, CEO of GoMarketing Inc. Integrating e-commerce platforms within product websites correctly is paramount to the success of an online company such as Access Control Products LLC. The devil is in the details. If the point of purchase is ambiguous or overly complex, the whole project fails, it falls on its face. At GoMarketing Inc., we have 20 years of E-Commerce expertise. Our clients need e-commerce solutions with between 100 and over 10,000 SKUs. GoMarketing has built custom parametric search engines for Clients with large complex product offerings. We are proud of our successful track record in building E-Commerce systems that are successful, scalable, and secure,” Richard Uzelac added.

Advanced Control Products offers transmitters, remotes, access cards, key fobs, telephone entry systems, vehicle transponders and tags, and gate and garage control products for apartment buildings, office buildings, schools, hospitals, hotels, government, industrial and military. You can visit their online platform at www.AccessControlProducts.com.
