

GOP Rep. Gaetz Cited Chinese Propaganda, Failed to Use Perspectify News Index to Distinguish Propaganda from Real News

News tech company Newsmatics recently launched a news propaganda identification service that can help readers avoid falling into the trap of fake news.

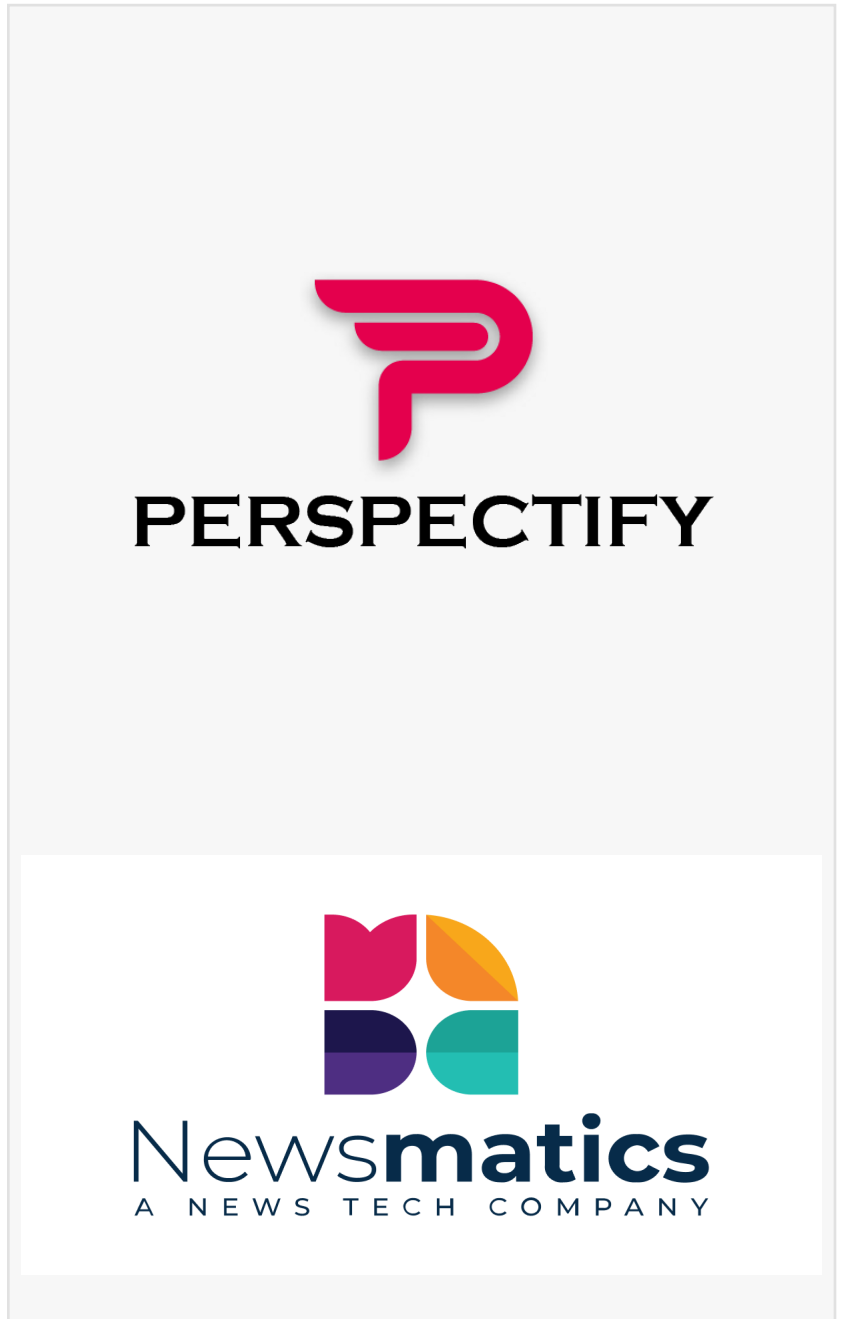

WASHINGTON , D.C., USA, March 1, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- At a recent congressional hearing, Republican Representative Matt Gaetz embarrassed himself by citing the Global Times, a Chinese propaganda outlet.

Ironically, in 2021, Gaetz himself condemned what he called "a fusion of the interest of the Chinese Communist Party and much of the apparatus of the United States government," the Washington Post reported.

The incident underscores the need for politicians, journalists, social media scholars, and all other news consumers to be able to distinguish real news from propaganda.

To help readers navigate the maze of fake news and propaganda, Newsmatics offers its Perspectify News Index, a free tool that uses political labels to distinguish between neutral, right-wing, left-wing, and propaganda/government news sources.
