

Propositions Launches New Microlearning Course to Help Displaced Tech Workers

Propositions Inc. has launched a new microlearning course in partnership with OutplacementPro to help workers impacted by recent downsizing events.

DES MOINES, IOWA, UNITED STATES, March 7, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The new program, titled "Advancing Your Career," covers the basics of conducting a job search, including how to find hidden job openings, structure a modern resume, prepare for various types of interviews, discuss and negotiate compensation, and more.

While this new course is appropriate for anyone seeking new employment or a career change, many of the examples and sample resources included in the course illustrate technology-related positions. Propositions, Inc., a leading provider of learning content, created "Advancing Your Career" in partnership with OutplacementPro.com, a leading outplacement and career transition service provider.

"We partnered with OutplacementPro to help research and produce this content," said Frank Russell, CEO of Propositions. "OutplacementPro has been successfully providing career coaching for over a decade and has brought a wealth of practical knowledge and expertise to this series. With the recent layoffs, especially in the Technology Sector, we believe this microlearning series can help many people improve their job search skills."

This new microlearning course is appropriate for anyone seeking to advance their career within an organization or to find a new job externally. The course includes 16 modules with sample resumes, documents, and career models.
