limitations. On the other hand, web applications fail to impress a wider audience who run the apps from other devices. A Progressive Web App (PWA) is a web application that comes with exclusive browser capabilities enough to allow the applications to quickly progress and act more like a mobile app or a native app. It is built to act a certain way that makes them more reliable, quick and engaging. They are installable on mobile phones or tablets. The UI loads easily when the user tries to open the application from the phone. They can run background tasks and they are capable of receiving push notifications. In short, a web app can act more like a native app.

Nowadays, PWAs are the most preferred web apps. It is immensely getting popular for its responsiveness and fast performance. Most businesses have already implemented this technology and taken advantage of numerous features and functionalities of PWAs, like adding its icon to the main screen of their smartphones, sending push notifications, supporting offline usage, and consuming minimal data storage.

Here, GoodFirms has listed top-notch, verified, and trustable WPA agencies renowned for creating high-performing responsive web applications to run business apps flawlessly on all devices.
