My USA Finance joins the Online Lenders Association, reinforcing their dedication to transparency and industry best practices

HOUSTON, TEXAS, UNITED STATES, March 3, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ --

My USA Finance, a leading fintech marketplace for various financial needs, announced today that it has become a member of the Online Lenders Association (OLA), a nonprofit trade association representing the online lending industry. As a member of the OLA, My USA Finance is committed to providing the highest level of service to its customers while adhering to the organization's strict guidelines. The company's joining of the OLA is a testament to its dedication to transparency, compliance, and ethical practices in the online lending industry.

Our goal has always been to provide cutting-edge technology and the highest quality of service to consumers, and joining the OLA is a step towards achieving this goal.”

President*

“As a company that is committed to providing the best possible customer experience, joining the OLA is a significant milestone for us,” said John Cody, My USA Finance President. “We are proud to join the Online Lenders Association and be recognized for our commitment to transparency and best practices in the online lending industry. Our goal has always been to provide cutting-edge technology and the highest quality of service to consumers, and joining the OLA is a step towards achieving this goal.”

My USA Finance collaborates with an extensive network of lenders and channels loan requests to suitable lenders capable of providing consumer loans. Although My USA Finance is not a lender and does not make credit decisions, the company remains fully compliant with all Online Lenders Alliance Best Practices, and it ensures that its network of reputable lenders does the same.

The OLA was established to provide a code of conduct for the online lending industry and help customers identify trustworthy companies. As an OLA member, My USA Finance is required to adhere to the organization's Best Practices, which include fully disclosing all applicable terms and necessary information in a clear, easy-to-understand manner; not engaging in unfair, abusive, or deceptive marketing tactics or activities; being in good standing with all applicable laws and regulations; protecting customer data with a comprehensive privacy policy and website security; and always treating consumers with fairness and respect.

My USA Finance provides innovative financial solutions that help its consumers achieve their goals. By becoming a member of the Online Lenders Association, My USA Finance is demonstrating its commitment to transparency, compliance, ethical practices, and its dedication to providing its consumers with the highest quality of service.
