Recognized for exploring musical possibilities without being tied to labels, adding multiple elements to build a modern and energetic sound, Pressive continues to pioneer its art with this collaboration with AXTY.

The Brazilian group AXTY performs a modern metalcore with sound references from djent, progressive, dubstep and trap. A musical wealth that adds new musical possibilities for both sides in this intense cultural exchange. Pressive and AXTY are artists who stand out for their quality and artistic vision, and who take the first step in this unprecedented partnership.

In its eighteen-year career, Pressive has released several works, such as the EPs Oxygen (2010) and Marionette (2014) and the albums Odium (2008) and Dissension (2015), in addition to several singles, such as the hits "Esta Vez No" and "¿Quién Soy? Yo". They performed many shows and tours in North and Latin America, sharing the stage with big names like Incubus, Godsmack, Lamb of God and Weezer, among others. Like their most recent work, Pressive shows with each single what fans can expect from the band in the future.
