The interactive 45-minute sing-along concert will be led by Prelude Music Foundation's early childhood music specialists and will feature musicians from some of Houston's leading performing arts organizations, including the Houston Symphony, Apollo Chamber Players, and Mercury Chamber Orchestra. Tailored for our youngest audience members, this live-music experience is developmentally appropriate for children 0 – 8 years old.

"The Miller Outdoor Theatre concert field trip last year was like the icing on every type of cake I can even imagine. We had not been on a field trip in about two years and to have the opportunity to take the entire school to the Miller Outdoor Theatre to hear the Prelude Music Foundation play all the songs the children were familiar with was so beautiful. The students were so excited ... It was like happy, happy, joy, joy!" — School Administrator, 2022 Event Attendee

During My First Orchestral Concert, families and students will learn about the different instruments in the orchestra as the conductor describes the instruments on stage; calling

Our ENTIRE school absolutely LOVED the entire vibe - from the whimsical welcoming signage, the colorful scarves, the venue, and most definitely the BEAUTIFUL music that unites us all!"

children's attention to how the instruments are played, the different sounds they make, and the many ways we can make music together. Kids will be encouraged to sing, clap, jump, dance, and otherwise make music with the world-class musicians participating in My First Orchestral Concert. Additionally, each child will receive a developmentally appropriate educational program with literacy activities, music education, and illustrations of each instrument.

We are excited to provide this music experience to the children serviced in-school music programs, as well as new families across Houston, while sharing the power of music during early childhood." — Margaret Owen, Director of Operations at Prelude Music Foundation
