

CONK! News Celebrates its Two-Year Anniversary

A week of celebration will ensue.

WASHINGTON, DC, US, March 13, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- CONK! News, arguably the most comprehensive conservative news aggregator currently on the World Wide Web, celebrates the two-year anniversary of its founding this coming week with special celebrations on all three of its produced podcasts.

"We opened on Monday, March 15th, 2021," said CONK! News Editor-in-Chief Jim Peters, "and as of next Wednesday the 15th we will have produced 367 original podcast episodes in two years, not to mention the year of live shows we did on BlogTalkRadio. We are proud of our website, and we are proud of the podcasts and radio shows we have produced during this time." Peters went on to point out that, according to Google Analytics, currently 73% of visitors to conk.news come back - "which, if you know anything about the internet business, is an astonishing number."

Hank Rearden, CONK!'s resident "fulfillment journalist" and host of "The Rearden Report" weekly podcast on CONK! News, said, "This is more than a job for us. We really do feel that the soul of the republic is in the crosshairs right now, and we want to bring enough light to the problems of the country to save it."

CONK! News maintains a stable of regular writers and podcast guests it calls CONK! News Contributors, and the first one so anointed was Tim Conaway, career magazine editor who was Executive Editor of Hustler Magazine for Larry Flynt at the height of its popularity in the 1980s and 90s. Commenting on CONK!'s two-year anniversary, Conaway said, "CONK! News is the best resource I have found for linking to conservative journalism on the web. I follow link after link every day to excellent coverage of politics, business and industry from a conservative view. These sources have well-crafted reporting and insightful opinions."

News on your computer or laptop gives you the information you need to make sense of our topsy-turvy country. Hosts Jim Peters, Hank Rearden and the other podcasters deliver outstanding programs with insightful guests."
