Making your own impact with the freelance creative services at papmall®

Branding in the new normal era is not only about building a brand image that attracts people's attention, but also about making an impact on people, on the planet, and in the performance of the business, in order to position and define the business itself in the time to come. And papmall® - the e-commerce platform with high-quality freelance creative services for businesses, has promised to accompany its buyer clients in making their own impact by introducing their professional seller clients worldwide.

Instead of just giving out inspirational words, a business that takes actual actions as solutions for people's problems can bring even bigger results in gaining their love and trust.”

Mr. Jimmy Lee, CEO of papmall®

Why Making Impact Is Essential In The New Normal Era

While a good brand image is important in branding and maintaining people's engagement, the sole objective of a business should not be having a professional image in customers' minds, instead, it must be the way the business empathizes with customers' problems and gains their trust with actual action. It is how the brand makes an impact that carves its image even deeper in the customers' minds, and then turns it into brand love and loyalty. And the number of 89% of Americans who think showing empathy is critical to creating brand loyalty, according to a study by Cannes Lion, has also proved this point to be true.

“Instead of just showing people what they want to see, raising awareness, or giving out inspirational words to grab their attention, a business that takes actual actions as solutions for people's problems can bring even bigger results in gaining their love and trust. And that's the reason why papmall® was born to provide businesses with freelance creative services that can help them achieve that.", said Mr. Jimmy Lee - CEO of papmall®.

Since customers' behaviors and demands change over time, it'd be better not to do marketing according to people. But to do marketing that people are a part of, such as assisting them in solving their own problems, guiding them in making improvements in life, or showing consideration for the world that they are living in. However, businesses need to remember that while working on all of the matters above, make sure to do it with strategies that are related to the brand guidelines and visions.

Making An Impact Must Base On Creativity

The key point to remember is that impact must come from creativity and originality. And different brands in the same industry will need to have their own way of bringing this term to life. But since we are living in the era of too much information and lack of attention, what makes the most lasting and sustainable impact is something that is relevant to people's needs, is unique in the industry, and is different from others - and this is where the power of creativity is defined, and the importance of freelance creative services is recognized.

Though the need to hire creative freelancers is increasing nowadays, businesses find it hard to

However, the freelance e-commerce platform out there has appeared to be their saviors, with a new way of hiring that is easier, simpler, faster, and more importantly, safer.

Creativity can come from anywhere, from a creative digital marketing agency to a solo freelancer. From the original idea on tissue paper to the biggest impact that the industry has ever experienced, what it all takes is just a new way of thinking and the capability to keep up with current trends. What businesses need to be assisted in creating impact is not a huge marketing campaign that costs them a treasure trunk, but an idea of making things change in a better way, as mentioned.
