/EINPresswire.com/ -- Alephium, the first operational sharded L1 blockchain scaling and enhancing PoW & UTXO concepts, has been listed on its second exchange: Tradeogre.com! This is a significant milestone for Alephium, made possible thanks to its community push to get Alephium's native token ALPH listed on a new exchange.

Alephium listed on Tradeogre

The Alephium community decided to reach out to TradeOgre and, working together successfully got Alephium listed and it can now be traded with the ALPH/BTC pair. This exciting development will undoubtedly make Alephium more accessible to a larger group of people and improve the liquidity of the token.

“

The listing on Tradeogre is a significant achievement for the Alephium community. It reflects the community's collective effort and the growing interest in the tech.

Maud Simon, COO

Tradeogre is a cryptocurrency exchange that prides itself on being open to everyone, regardless of location. With minimal withdrawal fees and a 0.2% trading fee on all fulfilled orders, Tradeogre is committed to making cryptocurrency trading accessible to all.

The listing on Tradeogre is a big step towards the greater circulation of ALPH, as it will expand the token's reach to a wider geographical audience. Miners, hodlers, and traders who couldn't trade ALPH on Gate.io due to geo-located restrictions will be particularly pleased to find out that they can now easily access and trade ALPH.
