The State of Wellness reports for organisations provide a roadmap to improve the wellness of their employees, which has a significant impact on employee engagement, productivity, and overall success.”

The Holistic Wellness Assessments are designed to provide employees with a comprehensive understanding of their overall wellness and identify areas that may require improvement. The assessments cover eight dimensions of wellness: emotional, physical, social, occupational, financial, environmental, intellectual, and spiritual.

After completing the assessments, employees receive a detailed report outlining their scores in each dimension and recommendations for improving their wellness. The assessments are available online and can be completed in just a few minutes.

In addition to the Holistic Wellness Assessments, Wellness Seekers Academy also offers a State of Wellness Report for Organisations. This report provides a comprehensive analysis of the wellness levels of an organisation's employees and identifies areas that require improvement.

The State of Wellness Report is based on the aggregate scores of employees across the eight dimensions of wellness. The report provides an overview of the organisation's overall wellness level and identifies areas that require attention. The report also includes actionable recommendations for improving employee wellness.

"We are thrilled to launch our new Holistic Wellness Assessments and State of Wellness Report for Organisations," said Ajay Mahajan, Founder & CEO of Wellness Seekers Academy. "Our assessments provide employees with a comprehensive understanding of their overall wellness and actionable recommendations for improvement. The State of Wellness Report for Organisations provides organisations with a roadmap for improving the wellness of their employees, which can have a significant impact on employee engagement, productivity, and overall success."

The Holistic Wellness Assessments and the abridged version of the State of Wellness Report are available immediately to all organisations FREE of any charge.
