Fenbendazole Market

The COVID-19 impact created an opportunity for the global Fenbendazole Market growth, owing to the application of Fenbendazole for the treatment of COVID-19-associated symptoms. For instance, in September 2022, according to an article published in the Journal of Cardiovascular Development and Disease, dysrhythmias due to SARS-CoV-2 infection exhibit high-grade atrioventricular block, atrial fibrillation, and ventricular tachycardia. Mortality in COVID-19 patients was due to cardiac movement with premature ventricular contractions and pulseless electrical activity. Thus, increasing demand for Fenbendazole from COVID-19 patients due to the COVID-19 pandemic is expected to drive the global Fenbendazole market growth.

Healthcare institutions all throughout the world were badly impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic, according to a November 2020 article in the Best Practice & Research Clinical Anesthesiology Magazine. There was a shortage of medical supplies such water, sanitising materials, toilet paper, hospital equipment, and personal protective equipment (PPE) for healthcare professionals. The COVID-19 pandemic-related statewide lockdowns, according to the same source, had a significant impact on the Indian economy, particularly the service and healthcare product manufacturing industries.
