Rice Market Size 2023

Rice is one of the world's most beloved staple foods, and its global market has been steadily growing in recent years. Cultivated and consumed globally, particularly in Asia, Africa, and Latin America, rice is an incredibly versatile cereal grain that can be found growing everywhere. The market is divided by type (including long grain, medium grain, and short grain rice), as well as by application (food & beverage, feed, and other industrial uses). The global rice market value was USD 293,773.9 Million in 2021. It is expected to grow at a CAGR of 2.35% between 2023 and 2032. Asia-Pacific dominates the global rice market, accounting for the lion's share of both consumption and production, followed by Africa and Latin America. Rice market growth worldwide is being driven by factors such as an increasing population, rising disposable income, and changing dietary habits. Unfortunately, these same forces also present challenges such as climate change, water scarcity, and pest infestations which could negatively impact the production and quality of crops grown there.
