Freight Forwarding Market Dynamics

Drivers:

Global Freight Forwarder market

Growth in Logistics Services

One of the primary drivers of freight forwarding is an increase in demand for cost-effective shipping and quick logistics solutions. Furthermore, this market is growing due to increased trade agreements between countries.

E-Commerce Sector Growth

The e-commerce sector has experienced rapid expansion and acceptance worldwide due to rising purchasing power of consumers. This drives market expansion at an accelerated rate. Furthermore, inter-country trade and demand for low-cost trade solutions from multiple users are contributing factors driving this expansion as well.

Warehouses experience an uptick in business.

Market growth is further fuelled by an uptick in warehouse development across advanced countries. Furthermore, manufacturing sector demand for supply and demand chain solutions has seen a boost.

Restraints/Challenges:

Market growth will be hindered due to an increase in nearshoring manufacturing activities around the world, which cannot take place without trade activity acceptance. Freight forwarders will face new challenges from nearshoring and reshoring manufacturing activities starting 2023-2030.
