Explore The Diverse Types Of Makeup Primers

Silicone-based Primers: The Saviors for Oily Skin

These primers are perfect for those with oily or combination skin. They create a barrier between the skin and makeup, preventing oil from breaking down the foundation throughout the day. Silicone-based primers are also great for blurring pores and smoothing out texture.

Water-based Primers: The Hydrating Solution for Dry Skin

Water-based primers are the best bet if one has dry or sensitive skin. They are lightweight and hydrating, giving the skin a healthy glow without feeling heavy or greasy. They help to create a smooth canvas for makeup application while also providing a boost of moisture to dehydrated skin.

Illuminating Primers: The Secret to a Radiant Glow

Want to add a bit of radiance to the complexion? Illuminating primers are the way to go. They come in silicone and water-based formulas and are packed with light-reflecting particles that give the skin a subtle, lit-from-within glow. They're perfect for those who want to add a bit of luminosity to their skin without going overboard.

Colour-correcting Primers: The Solution to Uneven Skin Tone

Colour-correcting primers can be a lifesaver if one is dealing with redness, sallowness, or dark circles. These primers come in different shades, each designed to target a specific skin concern. For example, green primers help to neutralize redness, while peach-toned primers brighten dark circles.

Mattifying Primers: The Key to a Shine-free Finish

For those who struggle with excess oil and shine, a matte primer can be a game-changer. These matte primers absorb oil throughout the day, keeping the skin matte and shine-free for hours. They're particularly great for those living in humid climates or with oily skin.

Pore-minimizing Primers: The Answer to Clogged Pores

If the aim is to blur the appearance of pores, a pore-minimizing primer is a way to go. These primers contain ingredients like salicylic acid and niacinamide, which help to unclog pores and refine skin texture. They're perfect for those with oily or congested skin.

The Perfect Canvas: Importance of Makeup Primers

One must prepare the face for a perfect makeup look. It's similar to preparing a canvas. No one wants their makeup to settle in the wrinkles or lines on the face, which is why a good base is essential. The importance of using a face primer before applying any foundation has risen to the top of the beauty industry's priority list. An expert makeup artist at viseart explains the importance of primers and why it is a go-to base makeup product:

A primer acts as a barrier between the skin and the liquid foundation, reducing the likelihood of breakouts and long-term makeup side effects.

It seals the skin and shields it from the damage caused by harsh makeup products.

It smoothes the surface of the skin, allowing the makeup to glide on smoothly and appear well-blended.

Buy primer to extend the life of the makeup. As a result, whether one wants to use it as a daily coat at work or for special occasions, a primer is required.

After a few hours, the foundation tends to look dull on the skin. A primer base coat prevents this from happening.

If one has oily skin or normal skin that gets oily in the summer or sweats a lot, primer absorbs excess oil and keeps the skin looking shiny for a long time.

Primers affect the skin in that most camera filters do not. They minimize the appearance of pores and pigmentation while removing the tired and aged appearance from the skin.

If an individual has light skin marks, it can be used as a concealer. It also serves as a highlighter, making the skin appear more radiant.

Apply The Best Makeup Primer Flawlessly

Viseart expert says that one should apply primer after moisturizer and before foundation or other complexion products that one will be using. They add that applying primer on the face is the same as applying face moisturizer, so use the fingers to put the product on all over the skin. They also believe primer is not only for foundation; they recommend putting primer on the eyelids to make the makeup more vibrant. Their last pro-tip: let the primer dry for a few minutes before applying makeup to let it set and be able to grip onto the product.
