Boutique has announced that they are accepting appointments for expert appliance consultations at their Avalon, NJ location. Customers living on New Jersey's barrier islands will enjoy the convenience of shopping for quality appliances with the sales team's undivided attention.

Art Handler's Appliance Center understands the difficulties of shopping for a new appliance online. That is why Art Handler's wants their clients to come into its stores and experience the different designs and features each appliance has to offer without the doubt caused from making a purchase unseen. Plus, customers with appointments are assured that they will get the personal attention they deserve without competing for the attention of salespeople as is the case at many big box stores.

"Buying an appliance is a major purchase and shoppers want to see the products they're going to be bringing into their homes," said Scot Sacks, Vice President of Art Handler's Appliance Center. "Our appliance sales appointments ensure that a consultant will be waiting for them when they arrive to answer all of their questions in a unique, personalized, one-on-one shopping experience."
