In recent years, the burrito market has seen a steady expansion, particularly in the United States and Mexico. Burritos, a beloved Mexican dish composed of a flour tortilla filled with meat, beans, cheese, and vegetables have become increasingly popular due to their convenience and portability. Many fast-casual restaurants and food trucks now provide a range of burrito options, including vegetarian and vegan options, to appeal to a wider range of customers.

Additionally, the rise of online food delivery services has allowed consumers to order and enjoy burritos from the convenience of their homes. Unfortunately, critics have voiced concerns over its high calorie and sodium content, prompting calls for healthier alternatives. Moreover, the COVID-19 pandemic has had a major impact on this market; many restaurants and food trucks have switched over to online ordering/delivery in response to shifting consumer behavior.
