world's leading endurance sports and extreme wellness brand, has selected Fountain Health, whose primary focus is on proactive care to save lives by preventing illness or catching it early, as their official health insurance provider.

"We are humbled to partner with Spartan and applaud Joe De Sena and his team for being true leaders. Spartan has committed to its employees and empowered them to take control of their health, sticking true to its mission to create unbreakable people. Many diseases in America are preventable, and now Fountain Health can help the Spartan team and their families prevent or catch many of these diseases, such as heart disease, cancer, and diabetes at their earliest stages. We know that with early detection, we can more effectively treat or even eliminate diseases entirely. This is how we do our part to support Spartan in making an unbreakable team." says Robert J. Rossiter, chief executive officer at Fountain Health.

Through this partnership, Spartan, Tough Mudder, Trail & DEKA employees and their families will have access to traditional health care, plus full coverage of the latest in preventative diagnostics. These include Galleri®, GRAIL's multi-cancer early detection (MCED) blood test, heart scan and brain scan powered by artificial intelligence (AI), executive blood panel, continuous glucose monitor, bone and muscle density scan, monthly vitamins, and four wellness visits annually. Fountain Health differs from traditional insurance because it provides additional benefits focusing on keeping member healthy.

"Many people I know and love — including my mom, my aunt, and too many friends — died from diseases that could have been successfully treated if they were caught earlier. So when Fountain Health Insurance offered a world-class preventative care program that also provided all the same benefits as our current carrier plan to Spartan and its staff, we joined without hesitation," said Spartan founder and CEO Joe De Sena.
