Innovating to make the markets more accessible and resilient is core to our mission at Exegy.”

Exegy CEO David Taylor

Over the past 20 years, Exegy has addressed capital markets’ most pressing challenges with low-latency trading systems distinguished by:

- High-capacity FPGA technology that delivers stability and consistently low latency, even under stressful market conditions.
- AI technology that underpins a suite of predictive trading signals delivered synchronously with real-time market data.
- A global team of experts who serve as trusted advisers and provide continuous monitoring and remote management.

Long an industry leader in FPGA-powered ticker plant technology, Exegy has expanded in the past two years, acquiring Vela Trading and Enyx with the backing of Marlin Equity Partners. The company now provides high-performance solutions across the trading lifecycle, partnering with diverse trading firms regardless of their strategy, latency sensitivity, or internal development capabilities.

“Innovating to make the markets more accessible and resilient is core to our mission at Exegy,” Exegy Chief Executive Officer David Taylor said. “We are proud to stand among TabbFORUM’s NOVA recipients in our shared goal of a prosperous and thriving capital markets ecosystem.”

Exegy was among 40 organizations across the industry to be recognized by TabbFORUM – a thought leadership site on issues affecting the capital markets – in its inaugural NOVA Awards.
