Rise in stringent government laws on road safety

The rising number of road accidents specially for motorcycle across the globe has made the government to implement stringent laws on road safety to protect the riders in case of any accidents. For instance, in India the government has made it mandatory for both the riders on motorcycle to wear helmet for safety. In the year 2021, government passed a new rule that all the helmets must comply with Bureau of Indian Standards norms and weight of the helmet should not exceed 1.2 kg. Therefore, new government rules are expected to drive the growth of motorcycle protective gear market.

Motorcycle protective gear refers to the products which are designed to avoid fatal injuries while riding a bike. The gears protect the rider from any kind of casualties while riding by assuring safety, security, and better riding experience. Moreover, the gears also protect the riders from rain, snow, cold or wind. The gears also give better vision clarity, style, proof of identity, and others. The rising number of road accidents due to rash or inattentive motorcycle riding has generated the demand for motorcycle gear. Furthermore, the riders nowadays are opting for high visibility motorcycle gear to prevent accidents while riding at the night. Governments in all the leading countries across the world have passed a strict policy regarding road safety of riders making helmets compulsory for all the motorcycle riders and, combined with heavy fines for abiding the law. Such factors collectively drive the growth of motorcycle protective gear market.
