Mr. Vegas has flirted with the influence of African artists in recent years and is popping up more regularly in world music features. He's been working with a French label, a new collaboration with Play 2, and TF Records to create a soon-to-be-released album. The “Heads High” singer [1998 Mega Hit] is nominated for Best Crossover Artist at the upcoming Latin American Music Awards. He is recognized alongside industry heavyweights The Weeknd, DJ Khaled, Megan Thee Stallion, Ed Sheeran, and Justin Timberlake in the same category. The prestigious event is taking place at MGM Grand Arena in Las Vegas, Nevada, on April 20th.

True to form, Mr. Vegas pays homage to the pillars of dancehall as he continues to evolve as an artist. He is adamant about preserving the culture, and given the state of dancehall, he recently entertained a lyrical showdown with one of his dancehall rivals. The landmark broadcast of the clash was well-received by fans worldwide. The musical artist is still delivering tracks quintessential to the genre, such as his newly released hardcore dancehall record, "Baddest."

The veteran singjay serves up a cleverly written track accompanying visuals poking fun at his peers Spice, Shenseea, Ishawna, and other entertainers. Watch the music video on YouTube to see the parody unfold: <https://youtu.be/0Ot2Zi9gZPg>.

Mr. Vegas' career has spanned more than two decades and there is no sign of slowing down. He continues to write and release bangers, much to the delight of his supporters and DJs across the globe. The Jamaican talent is celebrated for pushing the envelope and is embraced as an outspoken character.
