The report "Uveal Melanoma Market, By Diagnosis, By Therapy, By End-User, and By Region - Market Trends, Analysis, and Forecast till 2030"

COVINA, CALIFORNIA , UNITED STATE, March 30, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ --

The Uveal Melanoma market is anticipated to register a CAGR of 7.8%. The iris, ciliary body, and choroid are located in the back of the sclera and the cornea, respectively, and make up the uvea. In uveal melanoma, often known as skin cancer, the iris choroid and ciliary body are involved. The melanocytes that give the eye its colour grow tumors inside the uvea at this time. It is the most prevalent type of intraocular malignancy in adults, despite being a rare disease. When it comes to deciding how to treat uveal melanoma, the size of the tumor is the most critical factor. In its early stages, this kind of melanoma is asymptomatic.

The report "Uveal Melanoma Market, By Diagnosis (Ultrasonography, Indocyanine green angiography, High resolution ultrasound Biomicroscopy and Others), By Therapy (Radiation therapy, Surgical resection techniques, Transpupillary thermotherapy and Others), By End-User (Hospital, Ambulatory surgical centers, Ophthalmology clinics and Others), and By Region (North America, Europe, Asia Pacific, Latin America, and Middle East & Africa) - Market Trends, Analysis, and Forecast till 2030"

Key Highlights:

- Immunocore Limited and Eli Lilly and Company announced on June 29, 2015 that they have formed an immunotherapy-based clinical trial partnership to test the efficacy of Immunocore's lead T cell receptor-based research therapeutic, IMCgp100, in combination with Lilly's galunisertib (LY2157299) and merestinib for the treatment of melanoma (LY2801653).

Uveal Melanoma Market-By PMI

- In June 2018, Aura Biosciences, a biotechnology company focused on developing therapies that use viral capsid conjugates to target and selectively destroy cancer cells, released interim safety and efficacy data from an open-label Phase 1b/2 study of AU-011 for the treatment of primary choroidal melanoma.

Analyst View:

The global market for uveal melanoma treatment is being driven by an increase in the number of cases of eye cancer. One of the key causes of the growth is assumed to be the rise in the use of technological devices. This could be linked to the harmful UV radiation emitted by cellphones, tablets, desktops, laptops, and other electronic devices. According to the American Cancer Society, adults aged 60 and up spend 5 or more hours each day on digital devices and prefer laptops and desktops for internet browsing. As a result, the uveal melanoma treatment market is expected to grow.

Questions answered by Uveal Melanoma Market:

What are the major factors driving the growth of the uveal melanoma market?

The major factors driving the growth of the uveal melanoma market include increasing incidence of the disease, rising awareness and early detection, advancements in diagnostic techniques, and development of new therapies for the treatment of uveal melanoma. Additionally, the growing research on the disease biology and genetics is expected to lead to the development of more targeted and effective therapies for uveal melanoma in the future.

What are the implications of changes in healthcare policy and reimbursement for the uveal melanoma market?

Changes in healthcare policy and reimbursement can have significant implications for the uveal melanoma market. These changes can impact the availability and affordability of treatments for patients, as well as the profitability of companies that develop and market these treatments. For example, changes in reimbursement policies may impact the pricing and access to therapies, and may also influence the development of new treatments. Additionally, changes in healthcare policy may impact the funding of research and development efforts related to uveal melanoma.

What are the key trends in the uveal melanoma market, such as new technologies and treatment approaches?

The key trends in the uveal melanoma market include the development of new targeted therapies and immunotherapies, advancements in diagnostic techniques, and the increasing focus on personalized medicine approaches. Additionally, there is growing interest in the use of combination therapies and the development of biomarkers to help predict patient response to treatment. Emerging technologies such as gene therapy, RNA interference, and nanotechnology are also being explored as potential treatments for uveal melanoma.
