"The book is written by Batya Casper. It shows us the horrors and the effects of war tragedies witnessed by children. The impact is astonishing and eye-opening. The way she is able to capture the torment this child goes through after she has lost her parents due to war is remarkable. The way the child has been uprooted from a once familiar and kind environment to an unfamiliar and strange foreign country is rather jarring," shares H. S. in his book review on Amazon.
