

Spring Green Family Dental Offers Advanced Radiographic Imaging Technology to Katy, TX

KATY, TEXAS, UNITED STATES, April 3, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Spring Dental Family Dental understands the importance of implementing the latest technology to treat patients. Better tools bring better care. That's why Dr. David Cheng and Dr. Vivian Tso are excited to announce the addition of NewTom's DCiS Intraoral Sensors to their radiographic imaging toolset.

As the first intraoral sensor to use direct conversion technology, NewTom's DCiS is the most advanced sensor on the market. Direct conversion imaging allows the sensor to remove a layer of the radiographic process, resulting in higher-resolution images delivered faster. For patient comfort, the sensor is completely wireless and delivers lower radiation than traditional x-rays. This advanced technology is also more environmentally friendly, and works powerfully with low energy consumption.

At Spring Green Family Dental, this comes down to providing your dentist with a better x-ray image of your teeth than ever to ensure you receive the highest quality care. This precision allows your dentist to better serve your teeth in numerous cases, including:
