History :

Macgence founder Harshul Arora first came across the concept of AI Data and language services in 2016. As an internet entrepreneur, he believed in and worked hard to build AI assistance in India.

Now after years of study and planning, he founded Macgence, his own company, in 2018. The terms "Mac" and "Gence," which stand for machines and artificial intelligence, respectively, are combined to form the company's name.

As of the year 2022, Macgence is a global, privately held language and AI data service corporation with over employees actively striving to effect positive change.
