

Business Reporter - Selecting and deploying the right AV solutions for hybrid work

How SaaS providers can help ensure a frictionless user experience and data security

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, April 6, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In an article published on Business Reporter, AV (Audio-Visual) service provider ISDM talks about how state-of-the-art AV technology integrated with existing corporate tech stacks can enable efficient hybrid work and employee well-being. The number of use cases for AV technology deployments has increased considerably with the abrupt shift to remote and hybrid work due to the pandemic – with most of them remaining relevant in post-pandemic hybrid working environments too. However, what started as makeshift and improvised technology solutions need to be replaced now with intuitive, cost-effective tools that integrate seamlessly with existing technology stacks

AV technology plays a central role in creating vibrant hybrid work settings. It enables communication between on-site and remote workers via video conferencing, AV technology, instant messaging and document sharing platforms. It can enable meeting equality, where remote team members can participate in discussions with co-workers in the office on equal terms, as well as enhance team cohesion across teams who physically aren't in the same space. AV systems have embedded security controls and therefore ensure the protection of the organisation's data and network. However, identifying and sourcing the technology solutions that meet complex business and employee needs and offer a frictionless user experience can be overwhelming. As a leading provider of AV solutions, ISDM understands the importance of user experience and works closely with clients to design and implement technology solutions that are tailored to their specific needs.
