

Keeping roofs high, dry, and safe in Jacksonville Florida

Florida residents are accustomed to storm activity, and its potential to wreck havoc on homes and finances

JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA, USA, April 6, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Florida residents are accustomed to storm activity, and its potential to wreck havoc on homes and finances.

Roofing systems, exposed to falling trees and debris, and constantly hit by heavy rains, can cause damage that you may not realize. When Tropical Storm Ian hit last September, it made landfall near Fort Myers, devastating communities in Southwest Florida. Jacksonville residents breathed

Florida homeowners with mortgages and home insurance, may not be aware of recent state legislative changes that can affect insurance premiums, coverage, and payouts. In May of last year, new laws were passed that strengthened the position of residents wanting to insure their roofs on the basis of condition rather than age. Prior to this, insurance companies were known to reject insurance coverage for Florida residents with roofs older than 15 years. This disadvantaged homeowners who may have an older roof but had invested wisely in maintenance and repair work conducted by a reputable provider, such as Ecobuild. Although we do not know how the insurance carriers will implement this new law, Ecobuild can provide you with the proof you need to have your roof meet these new guidelines.

Ecobuild emergency roof repair and roof maintenance services supports residents to remain compliant with their insurance policies and current legal requirements. By investing in a simple routine maintenance that will keep customers aware of the health of their roof. This will allow them to prepare financially for when they will need to replace their roof as it ages. Ecobuild customer service representatives have a solid history of communicating efficiently with both customers and insurance providers.

As part of recommended ongoing maintenance, Ecobuild offers affordable on-site roof
