

The Naumann Law Firm Recovers $950,000 in Damages for a Los Angeles Homeowner Association High Rise Building

LOS ANGELES, CA, USA, April 7, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Naumann Law Firm, one of California's premier construction defect law firms, has successfully won a construction defect litigation case on behalf of its clients, Oxford Town Villa Homeowners Association, a 28-unit condominium project located in the Koreatown neighborhood of Los Angeles. The defendant in the case, Oxford Town Villa, LLC., improperly constructed multiple components in the building, and those components began to fail.

The major defects occurring at the project included excessive stucco cracking, concrete wall fracturing, inadequate slope on the roof, and a subterranean parking garage that was waterproofed improperly, causing leaks and damage to the concrete. Additionally, each unit had a balcony deck, but during construction, the surface membrane of the decks was installed too high, covering the weep holes of the sliding doors, leading to damage to the deck membrane.

William Naumann, Esq. and Loren Shiu, Esq. represented the Homeowners Association and secured a monetary settlement of $950,000.00. The settlement will help to cover the cost of repairs and remediation of the various construction defects present in the condominium project.

The Naumann Law Firm is dedicated to representing homeowner associations in construction defect litigation cases throughout California. With over 40 years of experience, the firm has helped numerous clients recover compensation for damage caused by construction defects.
