Some Key Highlights from the Report

In July 2020, Croda International Plc announced the acquisition of Avanti Polar Lipids, Inc. This deal will strengthen Croda's product portfolio and services.

Due to the growing use of polysorbate to prepare products for hair growth and in the baking industry, the syrup segment is expected to dominate the market over the forecast period.

Due to the increasing use of this type of polysorbate in the cosmetics industry, the Polysorbate 20 segment is expected to hold the largest share over the forecast period. This drug can be used as a solubilizing agent in oil-in-water emulsification and as a moisturizing agent in skincare products.
