After acquiring the exhibit Jack put it on display in the Executive Suites of CACI. For over 15 years, he proudly walked visitors through the exhibit that honors the courage and the will of those who returned with honor.

In Jennifer London’s speech she quoted Jack London from the foreword he wrote in Lessons from the Hanoi Hilton in which he reflected on the Open Doors Exhibit: “I pass these profiles every day. Whether it is the men I personally know or those I know by reputation, I have the same thought as I look at their pictures: May we all be as resilient and resolute as they were in service to our country and in life.”

Jennifer London was also a guest on the USS Midway of the Honorable Everett Alvarez, the longest serving Vietnam POW who was among the speakers in a moving tribute to all U.S. Military who served in Vietnam.
