

Angel Reese Talks National Championship Goal with Gordon McKernan Weeks Before Victory

Gordon McKernan and Angel Reese chat about Reese's journey from Maryland to NCAA Champion, Coach Kim Mulkey and more during "Grubbin' with G" podcast episode.

BATON ROUGE, LOUISIANA, UNITED STATES, April 11, 2023
/EINPresswire.com/ -- Angel Reese, NCAA National Champion and Name, Image, Likeness (NIL) partner of Gordon McKernan, recently appeared on an episode of McKernan's "Grubbin' with G" podcast.

In the episode, McKernan and Reese sat down for a meal at Phil's Oyster Bar, a local Baton Rouge eatery known for its seafood. McKernan opened the discussion by stating his hope that the episode would provide the people of Louisiana with an opportunity to get to know Reese better.

Born and raised in Maryland, Reese started her college basketball year at the University of Maryland. After two seasons with the Terrapins, Reese was hungry for something greater. During the episode, she said, "a national championship is of course the top goal." As fate would have it, the LSU Women's Basketball team would win the 2023 NCAA National Championship just a few weeks after recording the episode.

As they dined, McKernan and Reese discussed a variety of topics, ranging from Reese's opinion that Maryland has the best crabs to her feelings toward Coach Kim Mulkey.

When asked about Coach Mulkey, Reese said, "She's one of the realest coaches. She's not going to tell you what you want to hear. She's going to tell you what's best for you and your career."

Reese's talent on the court is matched only by her drive to succeed, making her a role model for
