

Astrix Launches European Operations

Market-leading life science consulting & technology solutions are now immediately available in Europe.

RED BANK, NJ, USA, April 13, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ --

Astrix, a market leader in creating and delivering innovative strategies, solutions, and people to the life science community, today announced the company has formally expanded operations into Europe with the launch of Astrix Europe. Astrix Europe enables the company to provide the same services Astrix has been providing North American-based clients for over 25 years in a new geography.

“For years, Astrix clients have been asking for our support in Europe across many different projects and we haven’t been able to deliver – well, now we can – immediately,” said Dale Curtis, CEO of Astrix. “The entire Astrix team is thrilled that we’re able to immediately provide the European market full support for strategic consulting, application & platform services, data transformation and scientific & IT staffing.”

Astrix Europe is a turn-key launch for the company made possible through Astrix’s acquisition of Orbis Lifesciences Consulting. ORBIS, based in Ireland, services the life science community by providing strategic, regulatory compliance and validation, CSV, serialization, and IT Solutions. This compiled with their deep domain expertise has made them a premier life science consulting organization in Europe for over two decades. ORBIS aligned perfectly with Astrix’s core competencies, values, and client-first mindset making the acquisition seamless for each company while providing greater global value for clients.

“The combination of ORBIS and Astrix made a ton of sense for the team at ORBIS. We wanted to expand in North America and Astrix wanted to Expand in Europe,” said Michael Gannon, Founder & CEO of ORBIS Life Sciences Consulting. “Who benefits? Clients. We both have expanded our reach into our target markets and added to our ability to provide world-class, expert-level consulting to the life science community.”

Astrix Europe is fully operational and ready to serve life science community in a variety of capacities including strategic consulting, planning, data transformation & governance, and application & platform services.
