AceZone's founding partner*

AceZone is on a mission to make the world's best esport headsets. AceZone A-Live has been the professional choice for PGL, ESL, EA, BLAST, Redbull for several years, among others, providing headsets for the biggest esport tournaments on the world stage. AceZone headsets enable players to hear critical in-game audio cues before any other competitor - a critical 3-steps ahead, combined with crystal clear voice communication. They feature world-leading technology in active and passive noise cancellation, setting a new standard in esports and gaming.

“We're thrilled to be working with AceZone, to further their mission of enabling gamers to be 3-steps ahead. This is a major leap forward in gaming and esports," said Gregg Stein, Triple G Ventures Founding Partner and CEO. "The Danish-Based AceZone founding team not only brings the technology but also the leadership experience necessary to change the way digital games / video games are played and won. We're excited to extend this experience to gamers in the North American market."

AceZone will also be joining the #InnovateAtNAMM experience at NAMM booth #10105, along with other innovative and rising creator tech brands.

ABOUT ACEZONE

AceZone was founded on the idea to create the world's best esports and gaming headset. AceZone founders have years of experience in professional esports and the audio industry. The combined knowledge and expertise went into creating the A-Live headset, which is now an industry standard for live esports events, and used by many top tier esports organizers in games such as Counter-Strike, Apex Legends, Rainbow 6, Dota II, Rocket League etc.

With the A-Live headset being so popular among tournament organizers, AceZone wanted to bring their industry-leading technology to consumers across the globe, and thus the A-Rise and A-Spire headset was created. And is being launched now.
