As is being frequently noted, the industry finds itself wanting to increase opportunities for diverse artists but still facing challenges in doing so in an equitable manner.

Antony is one of the most exciting British exports...These projects are different to anything he has worked on before so we're excited to see what journey this takes Antony on"
Acheampong's representatives

Acheampong's casting reinforces the importance and continual efforts of American producers at marrying exceptional talent with world-class filmmakers.

Acheampong, who notably worked with 6-time Oscar nominated filmmaker Jim Sheridan, Oscar-nominee Rooney Mara and 'White Lotus' star Theo James on 'The Secret Scripture', is one of the few British stars who have accrued international credits in a market that is traditionally reserved for Americans.

Producers remain tight-lipped but our editors have been advised the projects will likely be hitting the awards-circuit come 2024.

In the first project, Acheampong will play what is described by producers as a hilarious take on cultural conflicts in small-town Oklahoma. Acheampong will play a series-regular role of 'Damascus.'

Acheampong's other project comes from filmmakers experienced in studio and web3 development, to be filmed in Florida.

As Acheampong's representatives shared, "Antony is one of the most exciting British exports...a gifted artist; he pours himself into the work. These projects are different to anything he has worked on before so we're excited to see what journey this takes Antony on."

In a statement, Acheampong shared "I'm blessed to be able to work with such talented people and share these stories with you all, it's time to bring these characters, these lives to the forefront."
