PUCALLPA, UCAYALI, PERU, April 13, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Last March 2023, U.S. Ambassador Lisa Kenna, along with senior embassy officials, paid a very important visit to the Ucayali region, during which they demonstrated their high sense of social sensitivity and the genuine commitment of the U.S. government to the protection of the Amazon rainforest, the fight against climate change, the defense of human rights and the well-being of the people of the region, especially in rural areas.

During her time in Ucayali, she visited agro-industrial operations in the area as well as local communities where she met with villagers and was able to confirm reality, observing first-hand the problems they face, which include the lack of inclusive economic opportunities and basic infrastructure.

After her visit, the ambassador was criticized by a small group of organizations in an excessive and unjustified way, a fact that we reject and express our indignation about these unjustified attacks. A cornerstone of democracy is dialogue with respect and tolerance, regardless of differences.
