About "Ethanol" in Beverage Industry:

Ethanol is a type of alcohol that is commonly found in beverages, including BEER, WINE, and SPIRITS. It is a colorless, flammable liquid that is produced through the fermentation of sugars and other CARBOHYDRATES. In beverage production, ethanol serves several important functions. In beer and wine, it is responsible for the alcohol content and contributes to the flavor and aroma of the finished product. In spirits, such as vodka and whiskey, ethanol is the primary alcohol and is responsible for the majority of the flavor and character of the drink.

While ethanol is generally considered safe when consumed in moderation, excessive consumption can lead to a range of health problems, including liver damage, cardiovascular disease, and alcohol addiction. In addition, consuming alcohol can impair judgment and coordination, leading to accidents and other risks. It is also important to note that not all beverages that contain ethanol are created equal. Some types of alcohol, such as red wine, may have additional health benefits due to their antioxidant content. Conversely, some beverages, such as sugary mixed drinks, can be high in calories and contribute to weight gain and other health issues.

There are many reasons why an Organization should conduct market research, Some of the important ones are below:

UNCERTAINTY: Extreme uncertainty is one of the defining features of an Organization because there is uncertainty about the product or outcome, the stock chain, the target customer segment, the business model, and almost every other aspect of the business.

INABILITY TO BE SELF-CRITICAL: With a lack of proper marketing research, the product fails because the target audience didn't share your idea of this innovative and amazing product and the product fails to sign in with the target market and gets an underwhelming response.

COMPETITION AND CUSTOMERS: Unless a proper analysis of the market competition is done, the company cannot size the market opportunity and the potential growth in the market. Emerging strategies about pricing, marketing, buying, etc. need to be done based on a thorough knowledge of the target customers and the evaluation of competition that the company is going to face in the market

SECURING FUNDING: Without proper marketing research, it is difficult to base and justify how your product would be successful in the market and why it is worth spending a large amount of money from an investor.
