

MIAMI EARTH DAYS 2023 WHERE SOPHISTICATION MEETS SUSTAINABILITY - SMALL ACTS - BIG IMPACT

JOIN IN MAKING MIAMI A WORLD – CLASS, 'GREEN' CITY 'EARTH DAY-EVERY DAY' EVENTS - SATURDAY - APRIL 15 & SUNDAY - APRIL 16 SUSTAINABLE LIFESTYLE CONFERENCE

MIAMI, FLORIDA, USA, April 14, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- A confluence of concerned citizens, conscious communities, philanthropies and leaders in the private and public sectors are united in South Florida to advance the mandates of the Social Impact Movement 'Earth Day-Every Day', April 15 through the 23. The Sustainable Lifestyle Conference is set to debut in Downtown Miami, April 15 & 16. In 1970 the first Earth Day received vast world-wide coverage. CBS News produced "Earth Day: A Question of Survival," with biologist Barry Commoner commenting, "This planet is threatened with destruction. We are in a crisis of survival." Venerated anchorman Walter Cronkite reiterated the theme, declaring this a "unique day in American history, dedicated to mankind seeking its own survival."

The growing abyss between the 'have's' and 'have-nots' combined with the man-made menace of pollution, drought and famine diaspora's, seawater rise and bitter social unrest are increasingly the 'new normal'. Miami residents are enthusiastically joining in a local to global outpouring of Earth Day events. The city-wide movement serves as a catalyst for cross cultural communities and commerce to advance the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDG's) with a framework for living and doing business responsibly.

Don't Throw anything away. There IS NO Away.
