As part of its commitment to giving back, $10 of every subscription will go to the Salvation Army which will support their mission and efforts to make lives better for all.

"Proper nutrition and exercise have always been a healing force in my life, and I intend to give back and 'pay it forward' by using this platform (along with my partners) to donate $10 of every subscription to mental health awareness," said the owner of BallerBeef.com, who has had personal struggles with substance abuse and mental health issues.

The BallerBeef.com suppliers include Branson Wagyu (Tina), one of the first women in the wagyu field, and Synergy Wagyu (Loren and Mitchell), fifth and sixth-generation farmers with a 100-year-old farm.
