Seeing the EVERYTHING installation at the second edition of Noor Riyadh, the largest citywide annual festival of light and art in the world, I realised it was important to bring this work to Italy.”

*Ilaria Bonacossa, MNAD
director*

NOHLAB, founded in 2011 by Candas Sisman and Deniz Kader, has presented their work at major international events such as Ars Electronica, Japan Media Arts Festival and Noor Riyadh, an annual festival of light and art organised by Riyadh Art in Saudi Arabia. They have also created interactive projects for well-known international brands. EVERYTHING works between environmental video art and digital design, bridging digital and physical reality through immersive video installations, where sound design is an additional narrative element.

EVERYTHING is a 12-minute immersive experience portraying everything as it appears, questioning human existence and suggesting new possible interactions. Through the eyes of a narrator visitors immerse in a fast-paced tripartite audio-video sequence where science, philosophy and metaphysics converge. Observing familiar elements that make up the routine of our daily lives, the audience is prompted to question how the complexity of our everyday existence leaves many questions unanswered. There are many things humans cannot perceive, but accepting how much knowledge eludes individuals can lead to a state of constant openness to the changing world, as well as a liberated view of manmade technologies and machines.

“Collaborating with the National Museum of Digital Art on the presentation of this immersive contemporary art installation, bridging the contemporary art world and the most innovative technologies, demonstrate a shared strategy with the Ministry of Culture and the City of Milan to create a digital art district as a centre of innovation and international transformation” – Maria Grazia Mattei, MEET Founder and President.

EVERYTHING, commissioned by Culturespaces, was presented by the Royal Commission for Riyadh City (Saudi Arabia) in the second edition of Noor Riyadh, which was themed “We Dream of New Horizons”.

“Upon entering the EVERYTHING installation at the second edition of Noor Riyadh, the largest citywide annual festival of light and art in the world, I realised it would be important to bring this work to Italy. I was fascinated by the work’s ability to create an intimate reflection on the idea of contemporary knowledge and to understand the transformations of our world through a series of compelling and hypnotic images.” – Ilaria Bonacossa, MNAD director.

MNAD

The Museum of Digital Art is one of the most recent autonomous museums established by the Minister of Culture with Prime Ministerial Decree no. 123 of 24 June 2021. The museum, entrusted to the direction of Ilaria Bonacossa, art historian and curator, former director of Artissima in Turin, will be located in Milan, in the Art Nouveau spaces of the former Albergo Diurno di Porta Venezia, designed by Piero Portaluppi in 1925, owned by the City of Milan. The renovation of the spaces and the fitting out of the new museum will be completed by 2026, to create a digital hub for cutting-edge art experiments, in synergy with the MEET Digital Culture Center. The Museum will present temporary installations created ad hoc in the historical spaces and works from its permanent collection, developed in progress, to document the history of contemporary art through digital transformations, opening up to universal languages capable of uniting generations and communicating through art the possibility of becoming digitally aware citizens.
