What is Ann Dishinger Chicago working on for the new spring look? She follows all the latest trends in spring fashion and fashion design and has some amazing pieces for people to explore.

Some great new trends are appearing for spring 2023, and Ann Dishinger Chicago is already on point, working to create phenomenal new outfits for all her fans to enjoy. Things like transparent layering, low-rise waists, floral prints, and light fabrics are already making their way onto the fashion runways – and her collection looks the part.

A picture of a woman wearing a spring dress with polka dots, a stylistic choice that would pair well with Ann Dishinger's ethically-made spring accessories.

We'll learn more about how spring 2023's fashion trends are going and look at Ann Dishinger's newest piece ideas.

What Are The Top Spring Fashion Trends Of 2023?

There are lots of unique pieces appearing right now, but some of the top options include the following:

Layering translucent pieces

Pastels

Low-rise waists

Floral prints

Light fabrics

Stripes

Let's check these out.

Layering Translucent Pieces

This is a particularly stunning option for those who want to show a little skin without being indecent, and it's perfect for the wearer if already feeling the spring sunshine and wants to cool down.

Pastels

There's not much that screams spring the way that pastels do. It doesn't have to be cliché, either - we will see many modern pieces that incorporate these colors and still stand out from the crowd with their fabric choices. Sometimes, the go-to choices are the best.

Low-Rise Waists

Low-rise waists can flatter almost anybody; this is a great 90s fashion that is being reimagined and updated by many bold fashion designers, like Ann Dishinger. Whether donning jeans or skirts, low-rise is very much "in" at the moment and looks great on many people.

Floral Prints

There's no combination like spring and flowers - and floral prints are everywhere this spring. Fashion-forward individuals can't go wrong with a flowery theme when creating a new spring look; there's plenty to choose from.

There are some very theatrical floral pieces this season, but the chosen style doesn't have to go as bold as this if you prefer not to. There are also airy, attractive pieces that will help stand out without making the person who dons this style the focus of the whole room.

Light Fabrics

Light fabrics are vital for spring and summer clothing, and the practical aspect is undoubtedly a factor. Ann Dishinger's new collection will likely incorporate lightweight fabric to reflect the warming temperatures.

Stripes

Think stripes are a thing of the past? That would be wrong; this timeless approach to fabric is back for another season of looking unique, crisp, and clean.

Conclusion

Spring is when lots of people reimagine themselves, and Ann Dishinger's new collection will be an inspiring part of this. There are some incredible pieces coming out in line with all these trends.
